

Timewave clocks up success at Kempton

THE HONOUR of recording the first win of 2023 for the Kingsley Park Partnerships fell to Kingsley Park 31's Timewave, who made a successful handicap debut at Kempton Park on January 17.

A son of Sea The Stars, Timewave was gelded at the end of a juvenile season which saw him race three times in novice and maiden company. Bred to be better as a three-year-old, hopes were high that he would be seen to better effect over a longer trip.

A field of five horses went to post for the mile and a half handicap. Sent into the lead by Franny Norton from the start, Timewave made the early running, pursued by Logistical and Autolycus, and was able to dictate at a steady pace. Increasing the tempo from around four furlongs out, Timewave went clear of the field entering the final furlong. And Franny eased him in the closing stages. Dancing Gypsy and Logistical kept on for second and third, but the pair were flattered by the official distances of three-quarters of a length and a neck as Timewave had won with plenty in hand.

Timewave is out of the Zafeen mare, Five Fifteen, whose only win came in a Listed race over a mile and a half at Toulouse as a four-year-old. Five Fifteen was also twice second in Group 3 events at Angers and Toulouse as a three-year-old.

TIMEWAVE has a full sister, Susu's Dimples, who won a Compiègne maiden on her second start and who was beaten a half-length in Deauville's Prix Goldikova, a Listed event over a mile, at four. ■

Limited shares still available

WITH THE start of the Flat season not far off now, there has never been a better time to get involved in the Kingsley Park Partnerships. Thanks to the exploits of such Kingsley Park graduates as Dark Vision, Victory Command, Poet's Society and Rose of Kildare, the royal blue and emerald green silks of the Kingsley Park partnerships have become a familiar sight on our racecourses in recent times.

And with almost 150 winners to date, the partnerships have proved exceptionally popular across the years, with the number of partnerships launched annually continuing to grow, to the extent that this year Johnston Racing has launched no fewer than five new partnerships, numbered Kingsley Park 33 through to Kingsley Park 37. Our Ready To Run partnership (35) is already fully subscribed, but a limited number of shares are available in each of the other partnerships.

Kingsley Park 33 and Kingsley Park 36 run on similar lines. Each partnership consists of 20 shares in three juveniles

(each partnership featuring two colts and a filly) with a view to them running for the partnership across the 2023 and 2024 seasons, before being sold in the Horses-In-Training Sale at Tattersalls in October 2024.

Each share will cost £8,750 (details of deposit and instalment payments are available on request) with an additional payment of £1,900 per horse due for each horse taken into training for a second year. As ever, partners can rely on Johnston Racing's double assurances regarding these partnerships: first, that Johnston Racing will underwrite the partnerships (meaning that no further payments will be required beyond those agreed at the outset); and secondly, that all veterinary costs, including surgery, are included in the training fee paid by the partnership (meaning that partners are protected from unexpected and potentially substantial veterinary fees).

Partners signing up this month will be able to join in the partners' meeting scheduled for mid-March, and if they act quickly, they might be able to participate in the naming process for the horses.

The three horses representing KP33 are a Kodiak colt out of a half-sister to the Group 1 winner Robin of Navan; a Phoenix of Spain filly out of the Lawman mare Kiltara; and a Le Havre colt out of the Listed-placed Frankel mare Hulcote.

Running for KP36 are a Shalaa colt out of the Galileo mare Misty Night; a Mastercraftsman colt out of the Leroidesanimaux mare Akvavera; and a Phoenix of Spain filly out of a Dalakhani mare, one of whose winners finished fourth in the Irish Derby.

THE model for Kingsley Park 34 and Kingsley Park 37 is similar, but these are both 'Gold' partnerships, the difference from 33 and 36 being that the horses in these partnerships cost more to acquire, and hence the initial payment for these two partnerships is higher, at £16,450. The terms and conditions, and those important assurances, also apply to KP34-Gold and KP37-Gold.

Both new Gold partnerships also feature two colts and a filly. KP34-Gold will be represented by a Wootton Bassett colt out of the Listed-winning Dubai Destination mare Brasileira; a Highland Reel colt out of Recambe, the dam of the multiple Group 1 winner Laurens; and a Sea The Stars filly out of the Listed-winning Captain Rio mare Jane's Memory.

Team KP37-Gold features a Zoffany

colt out of the German Oaks winner, Rosenreihe; a Wootton Bassett colt out of the Listed-placed Rock of Gibraltar mare Victoria College; and a Ten Sovereigns filly out of the Street Sense mare Big Boned, whose 3 winners to date include a Group 3 scorer in Germany.

The growth and success of the Kingsley Park partnerships over the last few years has been a major part of the Johnston Racing success story. We'd be delighted to welcome new partners into the fold and can assure you of a warm welcome at Kingsley Park.

Full terms and conditions are available on the website, while our staff in the Johnston Racing office will be happy to answer any of your questions. ■
