Yorkindness shines at Pontefract

HE YARD's five-year-old Yorkindness, owned by Paul York, has been voted Pontefract Racecourse's Stayer of the Year

The Nathaniel mare, who remains in training at Kingsley Park, won all three of her starts at Pontefract last year, all over two miles and a furlong, and struck up a great relationship with jockey Joe Fanning.

And there was more good news when the Yorkshire course announced that Yorkindness had also been voted their Horse of the Year for 2023 by their followers on social media. The final vote was between Yorkindness and Tim Easterby's Carrigillihy, with Yorkindness attracting 69% of the votes!

Yorkindness was firmly on the upgrade last term and added victories at York and Musselburgh to her Pontefract streak, ending the season on a career best rating of 83. She's a thoroughly likeable sort and deserves this recognition.

ACING STABLES in and around Middleham will once again open their doors to the public on Good Friday (March 29) as part of the Middleham Racing Stables Open Day, sponsored by the Arena Racing Company and organised by Racing Welfore

Racing Welfare is a charity which provides a wide range of support services to people working in, or retired from, the racing industry. These include help with accidents and injuries, mental health, money matters and housing. The Open Day annually attracts upwards of 3,500 visitors to the town, raising vital funds for the charity, funds which are ploughed back into supporting the Middleham racing community.

If you have never been to the Open Day before, you can gain a good impression of what the experience is like by visiting the event

website at www.middlehamopenday.co.uk. There you will find details of the yards participating in the event, together with a timetable of events and plenty of photographs from previous years' events.

Most yards in town, including the Johnston Racing yards of historic Kingsley House and Warwick House stables, throw open their doors to the public throughout the morning, and in the afternoon there are various events on the Low Moor, including a display by Retraining Of Racehorses, a racing staff inter-yard challenge event and a popular dog show.

The equine pool at Kingsley House always proves a popular attraction as crowds gather to see horses swimming throughout the morning.

There will also be a particularly special visitor to this year's Open Day. The Household Cavalry's Trooper Middleham, a regular visitor over the years, will make his final visit to Middleham with his Corporal of Horse, before being retired.

Given decent weather, it all makes for a fabulous day out, and it's all in aid of a terrific cause. Additionally, the All Weather Championships Finals Day at Newcastle can be built into your visit relatively easily.

We look forward to seeing as many of you as possible on Good Friday. If you can't make it, please consider supporting Racing Welfare in some other way. You can find full details of their activities on www.racingwelfare.co.uk.
